Language of dance is focused on understanding movement, through the basic actions.

They explore a basic movement idea, then they are introduced to the symbol that represents it.

They can spell out a short dance that they want to perform.

It allows them to be creative, engaging their thinking process.

I attracted people that have the same ideas, and who believed that language of dance should be enriching children.

It's not just about teaching steps and routines it's about the collaborative relationship between the student and the teacher, we allow them to take ownership of their work.

Physical and artistic skills are developed, analytical skills, communication and teamwork.

Ann had a vision to make dance accessible to all, there are no limitations, we truly believe that everyone can dance and should have the right to.

Parent

The most important benefit she's got is her confidence and how to express herself through dance.
